Company Name: Saputo

Indicator 1: SUPPLIER CODE OF CONDUCT AND INTEGRATION INTO SUPPLIER CONTRACTS

The company:

(1) has a supplier code of conduct that requires suppliers to respect the ILO core labor standards, which include the elimination of forced labor; and

Additional disclosure:

Regarding the following assessment “However, it limits the right to freedom of association to compliance with “applicable laws”.

In the terminology of our Code, applicable laws include the ILO Conventions as outlined in the “Compliance with Law” paragraph

In all your dealings with Saputo, you shall always comply in all respects with all applicable federal, state/provincial, municipal and local laws, rules, regulations and ordinances, as well as applicable international conventions, including, without limitation, the International Labour Organisation (ILO) Conventions (the “ILO Conventions”), in effect from time to time (collectively, “Laws”).

(2) integrates the ILO core labor standards, which include the elimination of forced labor, into supplier contracts.

Additional disclosure:

Our Supplier Code of Conduct is part of all contracts with our suppliers.

Indicator 2: MANAGEMENT AND ACCOUNTABILITY

The company:

(1) has a committee, team, program, or officer responsible for the implementation of its supply chain policies that address forced labor and human trafficking; and

(2) has tasked a board member or board committee with oversight of its supply chain policies that address forced labor and human trafficking.

Indicator 3: STAKEHOLDER ENGAGEMENT

To fully understand and address working conditions in sourcing countries, companies need to engage with potentially affected groups and local stakeholders such as trade unions, worker organizations, or local NGOs—in addition to engaging suppliers. Furthermore, as forced labor risks tend to be systemic in nature, collaboration with other companies, for example, to engage policy makers to strengthen labor legislation, is needed to address forced labor in supply chains.

In the last three years, the company has engaged relevant stakeholders by:
(1) providing at least two examples of engagements on forced labor and human trafficking with stakeholders such as policy makers, worker rights organizations, or local NGOs in countries in which its first-tier suppliers and suppliers below the first tier operate; and

(2) actively participating in one or more multi-stakeholder or industry initiatives focused on eradicating forced labor and human trafficking across the industry.

Indicator 4: TRACEABILITY AND SUPPLY CHAIN TRANSPARENCY

The company discloses:

(1) the names and addresses of its first-tier suppliers; and

(2) at least two types of data points on its suppliers' workforce (e.g., the number of workers, gender or migrant worker ratio, or level of unionization per supplier).

Indicator 5: RISK ASSESSMENT

Risk assessment involves evaluating the potential that a company has (by virtue of who its suppliers are and where they are located) of being linked to forced labor and human trafficking. Risk assessment is a process that is carried out in addition to and outside of auditing. It helps identify potential forced labor risks as well as actual impacts that may be hard to detect through audits. This process may involve engaging local stakeholders, labor rights experts, independent sources, and assessing risks associated with specific raw materials, regions, or groups of workers such as migrant workers.

The company discloses:

(1) details on how it conducts human rights supply chain risk or impact assessments that include forced labor risks or assessments that focus specifically on forced labor risks; and

(2) details on forced labor risks identified in different tiers of its supply chains.

Indicator 6: PURCHASING PRACTICES

Purchasing practices and pricing may both positively impact labor standards in the company’s supply chains and increase risks of forced labor and human trafficking. The company:

(1) is adopting responsible purchasing practices in the first tier of its supply chains, which include planning and forecasting; and

(2) provides procurement incentives to first-tier suppliers to encourage or reward good labor practices (such as price premiums, increased orders, and longer-term contracts).

Indicator 7: RECRUITMENT FEES

According to the ILO, workers should not be charged directly or indirectly, in whole or in part, any fees for recruitment or related costs (such as costs for training, medical tests, or travel).
The company:

(1) requires that no worker in its supply chains should pay for a job—the costs of recruitment (i.e., recruitment fees and related costs) should be borne not by the worker but by the employer ("Employer Pays Principle"); and

(2) takes steps to ensure that such fees are reimbursed to the workers and/or provides evidence of payment of recruitment-related fees by suppliers if it discovers that fees have been paid by workers in its supply chains.

Indicator 8: FREEDOM OF ASSOCIATION

The company:

(1) works with independent local or global trade unions to support freedom of association in its supply chains; and

(2) provides at least two examples covering different supply chain contexts of how it improved freedom of association and/or collective bargaining for its suppliers' workers such as migrant workers (e.g., by taking action where suppliers impede workers' rights to freedom of association and/or collective bargaining or by engaging policy makers to improve respect for such rights).

Indicator 9: GRIEVANCE MECHANISM

The company:

(1) takes steps to ensure a formal mechanism to report a grievance to an impartial entity regarding labor conditions in the company's supply chains is available to its suppliers' workers and their legitimate representatives; and

(2) discloses data about the practical operation of the mechanism, such as the number of grievances filed, addressed, and resolved, or an evaluation of the effectiveness of the mechanism.

Indicator 10: REMEDY PROGRAMS / RESPONSE TO ALLEGATIONS

A. If no allegation regarding forced labor in the first or lower tier of a company's supply chains has been identified and disclosed by a third party(ies) in the last three years, the company discloses:

(1) a process for responding to potential complaints and/or reported violations of policies that address forced labor and human trafficking; and

(2) at least two examples of outcomes of its remedy process in practice, covering different supply chain contexts, for its suppliers' workers.

OR:

B.1. If one or more allegations regarding forced labor in the first or lower tier of a company's supply chains have been identified and disclosed by a third party(ies) in the last three years, the company discloses:
(1) a process for responding to potential complaints and/or reported violations of policies that address forced labor and human trafficking; and

(2) outcomes of the remedy process in the case of the allegation(s), including evidence that remedy(ies) are satisfactory to the victims or groups representing the victims.

OR:

B.2. If one or more allegations regarding forced labor in the company's supply chains have been identified in the last three years, and the company denies the allegation, the company discloses:

(1) a process for responding to potential complaints and/or reported violations of policies that address forced labor and human trafficking; and

(2) a description of what actions it would take to prevent and remediate the alleged impacts.
